

COURT DAY VISITORS TALK ABOUT POLITICS

All Concede Harvey Helm Has His Race For Congressional Nomination Good as Won.

Owing to the good weather Monday, there was not a large crowd of farmers in town. There were quite a number of bunches of cattle at Nunneley's Stock Yards and trading was good. Much of the stuff was of a medium grade, however, and no extra prices were realized. Bees that brought around a nickel a pound had to be extra good.

There was practically no trading whatever in mule or horse flesh. A few out of town buyers were here but they did not seem to find what they were looking for. The offerings were very scant. It was a court day when the farmers as a general thing remained home to attend to their wheat and other farm work.

Considerable discussion of politics was heard during the day on account of the fact that this was the last court day before the general primary is held in August 3rd. As it is the first general primary that will be held in the state since the adoption of the direct primary law by the last legislature, considerable interest is being manifested in its workings.

Nothing but confidence that Congressman Harvey Helm has his race for re-nomination won, was heard on every side. Democrats from Garrard, Boyle, Mercer, Casey, Adair and Madison were here and say that his re-nomination is a "cinch". Such prominent democrats as Capt. Tom Robinson, J. R. Mount, "Boze" Brown, E. C. Gaines and others say that he will sweep Garrard county from stem to stern. J. S. Breeding of Adair county, says that Adair is practically solid for Helm. Scattered reports also came from Boyle county, several of the leading democrats declaring that that county is easily three to one for Helm.

An interesting report was brought from Madison county by Supt. of Schools, J. W. Ireland, who spent last week in Richmond, conducting the teachers' institute. Prof. Ireland as a usual thing, does not mix politics with his institute work, but says that he heard opinions so freely and frequently expressed while in Richmond, that he was almost forced to take cognizance of them. He says that prominent democrats of Madison county, and he names some of them, are openly waging that Helm will carry Madison by from 500 to 1,000 majority over Judge Sullivan. A poll taken by two well known democrats on the street there last court day, showed that of the first forty men who passed a certain store, 39 of them were for Helm and one for Sullivan. Congressman Helm and his friends here have never claimed that he would carry Madison, but all reports which have come from there have been to the effect, that he is very popular with the farmers and common people and that Judge Sullivan will have to run some to beat him. Mr. Helm's friends believe that it is practically certain that he will carry ten out of the eleven counties in the district. They are counting on him winning by 10,000 majority in the district. Mr. Helm is anxious that his every friend go to the polls on August 3, however, so as to make victory certain.

There was considerable interest manifested in the race for the democratic nomination for Commonwealth's Attorney in this judicial district here Monday. Hon. Emmett Puryear, of Danville, was here with his law partner, Hon. Robert Harding, prosecuting a vigorous campaign, while County Attorney W. S. Burch and his friends were not idle. The friends of both candidates are claiming that each is a winner. Each candidate is conceding his own county by the others' friends, leaving Garrard and Mercer as the battle grounds. The race in Garrard is said to be very close. Several good sized wagers are said to have been made here Monday that Burch will carry Mercer county by a substantial majority.

The race for the democratic nomination for magistrate in the Stanford district and for the republican nomination in the Crab Orchard district are attracting attention. The first race is said to be rather hard to pick with W. H. Fields, J. D. Eads, W. H. Roberts and Joe Goode as candidates, while the Crab Orchard race has entered those two popular republicans, Russ Dillon and John Kennedy, both of whom have made formal announcement, and it is said that Judge T. J. Culton and John Corum also have their eyes on the place.

R. M. Arnold, the hustling and progressive buggy manufacturer, of Danville, was here Monday, and as usual made some good sales. Mr. Arnold is one of the lives wires in the business, and ascribes a great part of his phenomenal success to liberal advertising in the newspapers.

CUT ARTERY IN KNEE

Robert Lassing Sustains Severe Injury While Driving at Springs.

Crab Orchard, July 8. Robert Lassing, son of Judge John M. Lassing of the Court of Appeals, sustained a very serious injury while bathing in the swimming pool here today. He cut an artery in his knee in some manner, on the concrete bottom of the pool, while diving. The young man lost considerable blood, before he was gotten to a physician, but rested fairly well after the wound had been dressed and the flow of blood stopped.

Young Lassing is a student at Central University, and is a member of the Student's Band which has been making music at the Springs this summer, all of the players being prominent college men, except Miss Berta Jean Penny, of this city.

KILLING IN BELL

Ninth Murder Since Last Term of Court—Mines Involved

Special to Interior Journal.

Fox Ridge, Bell County, Ky., July 8th.—Gint Patterson, check weighman at the Fox Ridge mines, was shot and killed by John D. Baker last Friday evening at 5 P. M. The trouble came up over John Lame, a nephew to Patterson's, who had struck Baker's boy the previous day. Baker had a warrant taken out for the Lame boy, which was compromised for four dollars.

Patterson on the following day was drinking and asked Baker why he swore a lie against his nephew. This question made Baker very angry. He drew his pistol and shot Patterson twice, killing him on the spot. Baker escaped into the mountains. Patterson's friends have offered $50 reward for his arrest. The feeling against Baker is very bitter, as those who witnessed the killing say the killing was without justification.

Baker is a miner at the Ariap mines and lives at the Big Hill camp. Heretofore Baker has been of a religious turn of mind and occasionally preached to the miners. Patterson's remains were taken to Pittsburgh for burial and will be interred beside his two brothers, Andrew and Will, who were killed about a year ago at a Christmas entertainment.

This is the ninth murder that has been committed in Bell county since last term of court. Baker is a member of the famous Baker family of Clay county, who figured so prominently in the Baker-Phillips feud.

POSTMASTER AT LONDON DISMISSED.

Because His Paper Said Taft Received Stolen Nomination—Blow
At Freedom of Press

Because the London Echo, of which he is manager, declared that Taft received a stolen nomination at Chicago, Lee B. McHargue, postmaster at London, Laurel county, was dismissed last week. A dispatch from Washington said:

Senator Bradley has received the following letter from Dr. C. P. Granfield, First Assistant Postmaster General, dated July 3: "An order has this day been made by direction of the President, removing Lee B. McHargue as postmaster at London, Ky., for vilification of the President in the newspaper controlled by him. As the London postoffice is to be placed in charge of the postmaster's surties until another appointment is made and action at an early date is desired, your prompt recommendation for the appointment of a successor to Mr. McHargue will be appreciated."

Senator Bradley has not thus far recommended a successor to Mr. McHargue.

McHargue's paper has attacked President Taft in a most outrageous manner, said Mr. Granfield. It accused the President of stealing delegates in the Chicago convention.

While President Taft has not drawn the line on criticism as a general proposition, and has accorded to every officeholder the right to be against him for re-nomination, the case of McHargue got on the President's nerves.

Many say that in ousting McHargue he gave recognition to a new offense which was not supposed to exist in America, that of lese majesty. It was not charged that McHargue had failed to make an acceptable Postmaster or that there had been any neglect of his duties.

McHargue's friends say the President had applied these terms to himself and ought to take umbrage when they were applied by another. The London Echo is edited by J. W. Stevenson with McHargue as manager. It has always been strong against Caleb Powers and was an ardent advocate of Roosevelt for the republican presidential nomination.

After the nomination of Taft, it said: "Yes, we are still for Taft, even if he was the receiver of stolen goods in the form of illegal delegates. What if his nomination is tainted, there are men in the House and Senate whose titles are also tainted, and we have upheld them all along. One more will not matter much, and then Mr. Taft accepted the stolen delegates so gracefully that one could scarcely help admiring his nerve. Yes, you bet, we're for 'Big Bill' and 'Sunny Jim'."

Boss Barnes, Pentose, the high finance of Wall street and all the other embellishments that will add lustre to the Taft campaign. Let's go it's a great ticket, and we have fallen for it strong."

PASSENGER COACH ON L. & N. TURNS OVER

Prof. Ireland and Miss Essie Burch.
Among the Passengers Who Were Badly Hurt.

Prof. J. W. Ireland, superintendent of the Stanford City Schools, and Miss Esther Burch, also of this city, had narrow escapes from death when a rear passenger coach on the K. C. Division of the L. & N., jumped the track near Paint Lick last Saturday night, and turned turtle. About fifteen passengers were in the car, and several were severely hurt, and it is considered remarkable that no one was killed. The train was due here shortly after nine o'clock, but due to the accident, did not get in until about twelve.

Prof. Ireland and Miss Burch were both brought home. Neither sustained any broken bones, but both were badly bruised and considerable cuticle was removed from one of Prof. Ireland's limbs, by a seat falling on top of him. He was lamed so badly that he was unable to go to Frankfort this week to conduct the teachers' institute there. Miss Burch was returning home from West Virginia, where she had been teaching during the past term. She will be laid up for several days.

Probably the most severely injured on the train was Lavin Kirk, of Parksville, Johnson county, who was aboard the train with his bride. He was cut over the ear and bruised about the face, a heavy seat pinioning him down until it was removed by the rescuers. He was taken off the train at Paint Lick in an unconscious condition, together with his frantic wife.

The accident is said to have been caused by spreading rails which caused the coach to jump the tracks.

Prof. Ireland said: "We felt the wheels bumping on the cross-ties for a few seconds and then the coach began to go over, and we with it. Miss Burch and myself, who were sitting together, were shot forward, by the jar, and part of the seat was torn out with me. The tops of other seats came off also, and this was what caused most of the injuries, as they fell on the passengers who were scattered about the car."

Miss Stella McWhorter sustained cuts over the eye and bruises about the body. Conductor Thompson was considerably bruised and shaken up. R. G. Vogler, of Cynthia, sustained a sprained knee and bruises on the body. Miss Hattie Belle Burt, of Bryansville, bruised about the arms and head.

Claim Agent A. M. Warren, of the L. & N., was there early in the week investigating the condition of the injured.

A woman whose name was not learned by the other passengers but who was said to be from Mt. Vernon was severely injured. She was put aboard the east bound train here and fainted after it started.

Petitions are being circulated now in every precinct in the county and town of Somerset, and these, with the required number of signatures to each, will be presented to the County Judge, and he will be requested to call the election for that date. It is practically conceded that in a vote with the county as a unit, Pulaski will go four-fifths "dry."

TOBACCO CONDITIONS IN KENTUCKY ARE GOOD

According to Annual Forecast of Crop Made by Cincinnati Paper—Local Situation.

Unless all indications fail and disastrous conditions confront the tobacco crop of the United States during its growing season the 1912 yield while establishing no new record, will be considerably heavier than last year, says the Cincinnati Enquirer, in its annual review of tobacco prospects, as gathered by its correspondents all over the country.

There is an apparent tendency in practically every section of the country to plant more tobacco than a year ago, except perhaps throughout the cigar-growing sections of Ohio, where the farmers have become discouraged because of the low prices which have prevailed for their product the past few years.

Notwithstanding the uncertain weather conditions which have been experienced in many parts of the tobacco-growing regions the crop seems to have gone into the field for the most part under fairly favorable conditions.

The talk about the ten-year pooling movement in Kentucky appears to have carried but little weight with the growers, and it is doubtful if this had any effect on the contemplated acreage whatsoever. The increased planting in Kentucky, while not of significant large proportions, leaves little room to doubt that even with poor growing weather the yield will be heavier than in 1911. Practically all the large producing states, excepting Ohio, show a wider area planted to tobacco this year, notably in North Carolina, South Carolina, Pennsylvania, Virginia, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

The lateness of the season through the Middle West, including the vast hurley belt of Kentucky, Ohio and Indiana, appears to have been more talk than fact, and while the plants in many sections went into the field from one to three weeks later than a normal season the delay seems to have been beneficial to the growth of the plants in the beds rather than otherwise. Another thing that has helped materially in setting out a larger acreage this year is the abundance of healthy, thrifty plants, and the unusual lack of serious trouble with the plant beds.

Reports on counties in this part of Kentucky as given by the Enquirer, are as follows:

Adair—Only about one-half of the crop is set on account of the prevailing dry weather, but if the remainder is put out by the end of June, a fair acreage crop will be raised. No trouble with beds reported. Acreage 300.

Boyle—About 1,200 acres planted this year. Outlook is promising for a fine crop. The high prices received for last year's crop indicate a general increase in acreage in this section. Acreage 1,200.

Casey—Good prospects for tobacco in this county. Acreage 500.

Garrard—About 5,000 acres this year, all barley. Splendid conditions at planting.

Jessamine—The largest crop of Burley tobacco ever raised in Jessamine county will be produced this year. Crop was late being transplanted, but has a fine stand. Acreage 4,500.

Lincoln—About 4,000 acres in tobacco this year. Twenty per cent. gain over 1911. All set out and in better shape than ever before.

Madison—Preparations made for 5,000 acres, but backward season may cut this down by at least 25 per cent. A good rain will change the aspect.

Marion—Beds in fine shape. Plants set out doing splendidly. Acreage 1,200.

Mercer—Plants are backward. Early planting doing well, however. Acreage 1,800.

Rockcastle—Prospects very bad. Very small acreage set.

The total acreage of tobacco set out in Kentucky this season is given at 348,060 acres as compared with 279,176 in 1911. This is estimated to produce 313,254,000 pounds as against 242,395,700 last year.

North Carolina will show a tobacco acreage this year of 213,000 Virginia 160,000, Ohio 72,000, Tennessee, 30,000, Wisconsin 44,000, West Virginia 17,500, Pennsylvania 45,000, Maryland 15,000, Connecticut 15,500, Indiana 15,158, Florida 3,500, Missouri 6,500, South Carolina 30,000, Texas 1,600 Illinois, 1,000 Massachusetts 5,000, New York 6,000, the whole showing over a million acres set to tobacco this season, of which almost half comes from Kentucky.

Some stock sales reported at Lebanon court day were: Three aged dry cows, $25.25 each; 13 yearling steers, $25.75 per head; 10 yearling steers, $20 per head; 25 old sheep and one buck, $4 each; 8 heifer calves, $20 each; 4 yearling steers, $23.25 per head; 1 yearling bull, $25 3 heifer calves, $12 each; 3 yearling heifer calves, $24.00 each.

TO SAVE ELLIS FROM CHAIR

Desperate Effort is Being Made By His Young Wife.

A dispatch from Frankfort says every effort is being put forth to save from execution James Ellis, alleged slayer of Squire Beatty at Barnside, and who was given a death sentence by a Lincoln county jury.

Attorney Robert Harding, of Danville, who is working without pay called on Acting Gov. McDermott, accompanied by Ellis' 18-year-old wife and six months old baby, pleading for the prisoner's life. The scene was affecting, but the Acting Governor said since the petition for commutation of the sentence had been placed before Governor McCreary and he did not know what Gov. McCreary had done, he could not take the responsibility of acting, although he agreed to look over the records in the case.

The killing of Magistrate Beatty and William Heath in the former's office nearly a year ago created a State-wide sensation. Ellis and Fount Hilton, also charged with the crime, were in the office with Squire Beatty and Heath. It is said fully a score shots were fired in the little room, and when the fusillade ceased two were dead.

A protest against commuting Ellis' sentence was sent Gov. McCreary by a number of citizens when it became known that application had been filed. The date of execution has not been fixed.

Besides its father and mother, it is survived by a little brother and sister. The little one was laid to rest in the cemetery at Danville Monday afternoon, after short services at the home here.

EPWORTH LEAGUE DAY AT MCKENDREE CHURCH

Young Folks Hold Delightful and Profitable All Day Session Sunday at Hubble.

One of the most delightful Sunday services in this section in many days was at McKendree church Sunday when the Epworth league held a joint meeting there. Quite a large crowd of league workers went out from Stanford, others came from Danville, and there was a large gathering of the members there. The children of the McKendree church gave a delightful entertainment of songs, recitations and floral exercises. They did great credit to themselves and their teachers and furnished delightful entertainment for the visitors.

At 11 A. M. Rev. Hager, a missionary to China, told of the growth of the mission work in the far east. At noon the ladies of McKendree furnished an abundance of good things to satisfy the appetite.

A very entertaining afternoon program was furnished by the three leagues. The welcome address was delivered by Wilson Alexander, president of the State Central League. It was highly complimented. President F. W. Hinit of Central University followed with an address on Good Citizenship, which was enjoyed from first to last.

The National air was then sung by the leagues, and then Miss Bettie Walker read a paper on the League's work that was much complimented. A duet was charmingly sung by Misses Julia Durham and Pearl Faulstich, which was followed by an address by Henry G. Sanders, Jr., of Danville, a solo by Miss Jaunt, an address by Sam McConnell, of the Danville league, an address by Rev. J. J. Dickey, of Stanford, a well written essay on "The Tomorrow of League Usefulness" by Miss Mark Rankin, were other pleasing features of the afternoon program.

The church was tastefully decorated with flags of 24 different nations, with the league colors and flowers. The crowd was a very large one, being estimated easily at five or six hundred, and all had a most enjoyable and profitable day.
